Dear [Recipient Name],

My kids are very young university going students living in New York. They just came over to see us during their end of term which happens twice a year. Whenever kids are home, they make a point to arrange for some dinner or party at our place so that they can meet all the relatives and friends at one time.

Youngsters these days are very different from our generation. They like being independent and not listening to anyone. The kids arranged a party the other night. A lot of people visited our home including friends and family. They party went till very late at night. I know our guests were using your parking lot for parking their cars. I should have informed you and asked for your permission.

The music was very loud as well. I did not realize the fact that your kids might be having their exams and they need peace to study well. I am very embarrassed to know that you came over to our house with some complains in return to which my kids treated you in a very bad way.

I apologize to you on their behalf. You have been a wonderful neighbor who has never given us any disrespect or displeasure. Taking care of your rights is our duty. And I am very sorry for that. My kids have realized their mistakes as well and we like to apologize to you in person soon.

Sincerely,
