Mr. John Smith

Dear (Recipient's Name),

Hope you are doing well. A bundle of thanks for joining us at the grand opening of our book store. I would like to appreciate your presence in our event. I hope you found it entertaining and informative. The turnover we got from this event was remarkable. In this global world books are having least importance. But still our purpose is to reevaluate their importance as reading books is still a great source of improving speech, communication and writing skills. Apart from this we have introduced the kids books full of colors and pictures to gain their importance among the upcoming generation. We would like to keep on arranging such events in future for further good will and developing a bond between readers and books.

Thank you for giving your precious time and dedication to our little effort..

Sincerely,

Karen Wordsworth
